Subject: RE: Battery Recycling

In my contacts with NEIC and HDQ folks, I am finding that there is not a single person that would be fully defined as a Battery Recycling subject expert. Mainly this is due to recent retirements. What has worked recently for other similar types of requests is getting a list of questions together and distributing the questions to the EPA folks that have been involved in the subject, in some form, following up with a conference call. So far I have identified the following EPA representatives that should be able to help: Ann Stephanos, Attorney OECA, Rich Huggins ORCR, and Kathy Lett, ORCR. I am still waiting to hear from NEIC. There may also be some EPA or other State regional experts that could help (e.g., Joshua Burman, MN).

If this approach will work for DTSC, let me know I will help facilitate the question review and conference call.

Subject: Battery Recycling

John –

As you know, we have a lot of issues we are addressing at the Exide battery recycling plant.

In a recent discussion, someone asked if USWS EPA might have an expert on battery recycling we might consult with.

Thanks for any help you may be able to provide.
